TBLT, i.e. the task-based method, is a method of language teaching that uses many aspects of non-formal education. For this reason, we can use TBLT outside school.

So, in order to understand TBLT well, it is important to understand what non-formal education is.

Did you study drama? Did you play sports? Did you participate in a workshop organised by an association? If you answered yes, then maybe you know a bit about non-formal education.

With the next activity, let's see if you understand the characteristics (= typical elements) of non-formal education. Do the activity.

After the activity there is a video. Watch the video to check your answers. The video explains why non-formal education is important when teaching a language.
